My Israel Source

Probably the best single source due to the ease with which one can navigate and search for what you need. You can search by subject, by age, by activities, and by Primary Sources... and more. There is also a continually updated list of news-stories from diverse papers and a range of links. <http://www.myisraelsource.com>

“Seek Peace and Pursue it”

See particularly the ‘Teach-In page with a PowerPoint presentation, if you can use it: <http://seekpeace.org/program.shtml>

REED

Contains a bunch of simple yet fun activities with Israel at the center; <http://reed.kfar-olami.org.il/resources/landmark/activities/activities.htm>

CAJE

An educators’ organization, this site has many diverse resources and amongst them some good ones on Israel. You will see hands-on Israel related materials under “Curricula Resources”. <http://www.caje.org>

Israel in our lives

This is a series of guides that promote the teaching of Israel in a compelling way to Jews of all ages, in various settings. It is more ‘about’ Israel education than practical ideas to implement, and therefore definitely worth a read at least once. It is split into different categories: youth groups, camps, etc. See it at <http://www.jesna.org/cgi-bin/ilive.php3>

Gaming Together: A Handbook of Games

This online games handbook is a valuable resource for group leaders in informal Jewish education. The games have been adapted for Jewish and Israel content are well explained and require little preparation or equipment.
